

Learning To Thrive

Staying relevant and creating value in a dynamic business landscape means individuals and organisations must continually adapt and evolve. Learning is at the heart of achieving success and maintaining momentum in an ever-changing environment.

Regardless of setting or scenario, there are consistently 4 elements which, when combined, enable you to thrive through learning.

It is who I am: Learning is natural and you are doing it all the time. Recognising this encourages you to do more and inspire others to the same. Lifelong learning is the name of the game.

Whole human: You are so much more than your job titles and areas of expertise. Taking a more holistic view of yourself and others opens the door to untapped talent and capabilities.

Scaffolding: Accessible frameworks help support learning. Forget bureaucracy and keep it simple. Include milestones and measures to monitor progress.

Accountability: Although self-motivation is a powerful thing, adding in external accountability brings a different dimension. Trusted confidantes can give that extra ingredient for continued success.

In order to get the ball rolling, how about ...

Creating and curating a Personal Portfolio.

A story book of what you've achieved, what your aiming for, the progress your making. It can provide a rich, powerful reference and resource. A tangible source of motivation and inspiration.
